Created by the EventHandlers

Many students have become detached from the UCSD community. This is especially true for those no longer living on-campus. They no longer know what events are happening around them and many find out about events afterwards because they were unaware of their existence to begin with. If you've thought, "I can't believe I missed the last Bear Garden!" or "There was a ferris wheel at Marshallpalooza?", UCevents is here to fix these situations. "UC" the events happening on campus in one place. With our app you can easily find events to attend or simply create your own events. While we do hope these events are made for the purpose of having fun like forming a new amateur volleyball team, they can also be for studying, industry talks, or anything else that comes to mind. Whether you need to rally in some classmates to study with or invite adventurous freshmen to check out your newly created organization, UCevents is here for you. UCevents ensures that only UCSD affiliated personale can use the app, so don't be afraid of random strangers posting up unauthorized events.

UCevents changes with you. Leader of an organization or want to meet new people? You can create events and specify categories to get more attendees. No longer interested in sports? You can change your interests at any time. Want to try something new without fully committing? Browse events by categories.

We provide an easy to use login. Simply login with your Facebook account and select at least one interest. From there, our 'Events' option allows you to view all upcoming events, browse events by their categories, and view a personalized list of events based on your interests. To help manage students' busy schedules, we have a "Schedule" section that shows the list of events you're attending and hosting. View and update your 'Profile' to match your current interests.

We hope that UCevents simplifies the college experience by helping students easily uncover all the events the University has to offer, whether they're official or not. Discovering on campus activities shouldn't have to be a hassle nor the result of a hodgepodge of flyers, word of mouth, and social networks. It should be streamlined. With UCevents, it's simple, it's easy, and "UC" events you want to see.
